From the President

We are now in the middle of the vacation season. I hope everyone is taking time to fish your favorite waters. I will not be at our August meeting for I will be on vacation enjoying our 50th State.

The board is in the middle of planning our Annual Banquet. We are looking for donations for the silent auction and raffle. Another ticket to the banquet will be raffled at our August meeting. Also, get your nominations in for Fly Fisher of the year by August 15th. Enjoy the summer and I will see you next month.

Tight lines!

Stan

Where to Fish Nevada in July

Near by

- Walker River (east and west forks) - rainbow, brown, and whitefish
- Truckee and Carson Rivers should start to see some very fishable flows finally.
- Rye Patch Reservoir—walleye, rainbow, varied catfish species and bass, and crappie
- Hobart Reservoir— rainbow, brook, and bow-cuts (it is cool up there)

July Fish out News as reported by Jackie Baily

A fair number of members enjoyed the cool mountain air surrounding Spooner Lake, Saturday July 15th. New member Diane Comeaux' first time in a float tube landed her first fish on a fly. Tillie Arizimendi and Allen Green landed lots of fish.

Fishing With Back Pain? By Kim Lyons – Taken from the Northwest Women Flyfishers Newsletter via the FFF Clubwire

For those of you who suffer from painful lower back conditions, sitting in a boat With poor seat support - especially a pontoon boat, or float tube - can be a long, painful day.

I have discovered a wonderful little device that allows me to spend much more time in my pontoon boat and float tube, with much more comfort and much less pain. It is a simple little self-inflating portable lumbar support made by Thermarest. Since it is inflatable, it can get wet without any problems. I stick mine inside my waders, right under my waist belt, and then the cinch belt to hold it in place. Adjusting the amount of support is as easy as just turning the open / close valve since it is self inflating. It also works well in the car, camp chair, airplane, office, etc. It is available at REI, and probably any other store that carries travel items, for $29.95.

I'm not an official spokesman for this product. I've just discovered that I'm a LOT more comfortable and pain-free when I use this, and that I really miss it when I don't. It helps to maintain better posture throughout the day, and reduce the dreaded, painful slouch that becomes unavoidable in a boat seat. Since I know that many of my sister/fellow fly fishers also suffer from significant lower back pain, I felt it may be helpful to share this device with others just in case it may help someone else too.
